

The grass is cool and soft beneath her blanket. Iris lies down on her back and looks straight up. The sky opens above her - wider than her bedroom, wider than her whole house, wider than anything she has ever seen.