

The star is very still. Then it begins to glow — first gold, then white, then blazing brilliant. It shines so bright that Iris has to cover her eyes.