

A streak of light blazes across the whole sky — there and gone in one breath. Iris gasps out loud. But the little star is still there, steady as ever.