

The sky leans down over the garden, soft and wide. She breathes it in. The first fireflies blink awake, one by one.