

Look! she whispered, her finger reaching for the very tip of the sky.
Mama smiled and looked up too.
Together they watched the first star quietly arrive, and then another, and another — the whole night sky beginning, just for them.